laration of war which saved the Allies.

There is no doubt Italy is least understood of all the major Allies. In America it is because she is judged almost solely by the south Italian immigrant. In France it is on account of what may be called temperamental incompatibility. In the case of England possibly it is because America and France seem naturally to come first. But this situation leaves Italy with a painful feeling of isolation. The Italians say this is not a good time to be isolated. They are looking for support. Perhaps the inclusion of four members of Giolitti's party, a progerman group in Italy, in the Cabinet, is the first political manifestation of this.

PARIS, Thursday, June 26.—The American relief associations here have received a dispatch from Col. Ryan, sent from Hamburg Wednesday. It says:

"There was considerable street aghting last night and this morning between government troops and divilians. Machine guns were used on both sides and a number of persons were killed and wounded. Rumors indicate that, the government troops are temporarily losing ground. Additional troops are reported coming from outside the city. The American destroyers Bernardu and Upshur are here and the food ship Ellut is also in Hamburg harbor. The Roma, another food ship, is coming up the river."

The dispatch says American relief workers are not disturbed and will continue work.

The peace treaty and the League of Nations covenant should be ratified without amendment, according to the Presidential view as it is understood, for certain definite reasons, namely, that if any one power seeks to make amendments then the war will not be over until every one of the twenty-one associated nations learns the results of the amendments. This can only be done through processes of negotiation and it is held that it would be hopeless process of delay in restoring peace. It is also held that the effect of the amendments would be to keep the United States out of the treaty and out of the league.

The question has arisen whether reservations amount to amendment, and Presidential quarters are

Washington, June 27.—Army enlistments for service in France will not be suspended until July 5 under the terms of the following amended order issued by Secretary of War Baker today:

The figures given by the Mexican government are correct, according to experts in Washington who have analyzed the Mexican financial situation, but the official Mexican figures include of the entire indebtedness, guaranteed by the Carranza government when the lines were taken over and which the Osterheld report gives as $290.564,522, United States currency. Nor do the Mexican figures include obligations other than railroads which the Mexican government has guaranteed and which, therefore, constitute as valid a claim against Mexican as a direct external loan.

Chief of these is the "Caja de Frestamos," farm loan banks obligations which with interest to June 30 equal $31,566,742.75. Nor does the official Mexican report take into account the "Infalsificable" issue of paper money of which $50,000,000 at 10 cents United States currency remains outstanding, making another $3,000,000, which the Mexican government on issuing solemnly pledged itself to redeem, but which it later repudiated and which it will some day be compelled to pay.

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, June 17.—Capt. Jorgen Hansen was today appointed port pilot, by the Harbor Commission. This will give two pilots needed on account of increasing business since the warended. For several years Capt. C. N. Krog has been doing the city pilot work alone. The return of the fiest of oil tankers from Atlantic waters during the past few moonths has increased the demands made upon the time of pilots and danger of delays when two or more ships are in port at a time.

BANTA ANA, June 27.—A verifiet by jury in favor of the design of the State Compensation Insurance. Fund, against Carl G. Jern, has apparently brought to a close this suit, which has been much in the courts the last two years. The action was brought for damners of Orange, in a collision with Jern's machine in February, 1916. The jury held that Summers was guilty of contributory negligence and that Jorn was not liable to the State insurance fund from the fact that Summers was more than a half classrance fund from the fact that Summers was more than a half rails from the place of his employment when he was injured.

Mass Meeting of Patriotic Citizens Subscribes to Drive Reds Out and Educate People to Menace.

Protection for this community volunteer as a speakers' bureau reagainst Fourth of July bomb outrages, and a big share in the national movement to educate people against Boßhevism and I.W.W.-ism, was pledged last night at a mass meeting of business men and other patriotic citizens at the Alexandria. A large sum of money was subscribed for the purpose of establishing a big speakers bureau and circulating anti-Bolshevik propaganda. It was suggested that volunteers from the service men of the city be called upon to use Student Army Training Corps rifles on July Fourth to guard against any Mr. Cartwright shifted to the other side of, the question and declared that labor hour ask too much. At the same time, he said, merchants should reduce the cost of commodities as much as they can grab while the getting seems good.

"Get men to work and keep them working," he advised, "By so doing you will increase production and production will automatically bring prices down. Co-operate with loyal union men, but give nouninon men the privilege of being independent of unions.

The city now has eleven wells of this character in the valley, sunk to increase the flow of the Owens River, and other wells will be sunk as rapidly as possible during the entire summer, it is said. Compressors will be placed in operation on some of these wells to accelerate their flow, and Mr. Mulholland said yesterday that the wells will average a flow of three second feet.

clared happened while he was away in the army. "But what to be was to be, I suppose," he says.

The young man and the girl were married after a sensational elopement, when she was just 16, in 1915. They separated in 1917. After the husband entered the service, the wife came to the family home on Thomas street. Dunn declares, and asked the mother to take her back. "She asked mother to give her another chance. So mother wrote to me and told me about it, and I said yes. Of course, I made over my allotment to her. She lived in our house. It was some months before this thing occurred. Then it was that dad wrote me and told me everything."

According to M. M. Ferguson, attorney for young Dunn, the act upon which the divorce action will be based is alleged to have occurred in March, 1918, while George Dunn was in the army.

taxes, will hold a mass meeting to night at Seal Beach to formulate a campaign of protest. Efforts have been made to secure the attendance of every motion picture manager, with all interested in cabareta, beach concessions, theatrical and vaude, will house, scenario producers, and owners of properties affected by the anticipated condition.

The meeting will form quite the most remarkable of its kind ever held in these parts. Promises of an attendance of hundreds have been sent to the committees in charge.

An important feature of the meeting will be consideration of the case of Missouri, which passed a law assessing taxation of 20 per cent. on all places of amusement several months ago, although that State has not yet gone dry.

It is the spirit of Los Angeles amusement men to enter a vigorous protest against the burden of taxation against the burden of taxation approached by removal of liquor licenses, Their protest will mean: "Why make the amusement man the first and principal goat in raising money to replace revenues lost by the nation's going dry?" They intend presenting reports showing that other industries and lines of effort should bear their share of the taxes in proportion to their profits, and will make an effort to show that profits accruing from centers of amusement are less than the public liminglines.

Everybody with interest in booze, pro averyody with interest in nooze, pro-on—that is, in prohibiting or in con-ng—is agitated these merry days. The m goes dry, officially, July 1, which is close at hand; and numerous thirsty have laid in kegs and quarts. But dealnses are being renewed, officially, rumored that the land will not be-Sahara until January 1, 1930. But shall a poor man do? Who wants to $500 worth of hoose on hand for a pri-nip now and then if it continues to be ossible to get a drink downtown? Under those circumstances a man who lives in a rented house must stay there until his supply is exhausted. If a fire breaks out—will he be breaking the law if he moves a case of whisky into the hext lot? After all, the prohibitionists seem to have the heat of it. They are letting the other he best of it. They are letting the other ellows do most of the worrying.

DIMOCRATIC FELICITY. Bourbon leaders have been holding high carnival in our midst during recent days. The presence of National Democratic Leader Homer S. They were all nonpartisans a few weeks ago when a Mayoralty candidate was being selected; but they have doffed that dis-guise now and boasted before the national committeemen how they had captured the local works. Some have even worked them-selves to the pitch of believing that it will be possible to bring the next Democratic National Convention to Los Angeles.

While the visitors were noncommittal, some of the national committeemen admit-ted that the wonderful climate of Southern California was a powerful argument against holding another Democratic convention dur-ing the month of June in St. Louis or Baltimore. Democratic national conventions are generally warm enough to melt three feet of ice; the suffering from the heat in an itern city with the beer emporiums closed uld be something too awful to contem-

Los Angeles was glad to welcome the Democratic leaders and give them a fore-taste of paradise. CHAIRMAN CUMMINGS, CHAIRMAN

HAYS.

Speaking on the same day and using identical arguments, Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, and Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, asserted that the establishment of a League of Nations to secure a lasting world peace is an American and not a partisan issue. As the discussion proceeds concerning the extent to which this country shall participate in the deliberations and actions of the league the evidence becomes overwhelming that the best thought of the whole country, without reference to party alignment, is supporting the league.

It is perhaps but natural that Mr. Hays and Mr. Cummings should have sought to secure advantage for their respective parties from the formation of such a league. Both are political leaders maneuvering for position for the national campaign next year. Three weeks ago Mr. Cummings asserted in a published statement that the formation of a League of Nations is a Democratic programme and charged that the opwas wholly of a partisan nature. This statement was deprecated on the floo Senate by one of the strongest Demperatic supporters of the league. Mr. Cum mings has since modified his utterances; but it was observable in his address in Los Angeles on Thursday night that he sought to establish by innuendo what he no longer ound politic to assert as fact.

Much as he would like to fold the League of Nations covenant as a toga about the Democratic party Mr. Cummings has found that the people of the country as a whole resent attempts from any source to make it a partisan issue. It looks very much as though Mr. Cummings sought to use the league as a herring to draw across the trail of Democratic extravagance and misnent during the world war. He would like to go into the campaign next year, not on the record of his party, but on an issue taken from outside the record.

Judging from the trend of Mr. Cummings's discourse he came to speak espe-cially on the covenant of the League of Nations. One would expect such an address to be nonpartisan in character and an audi ence assembled without relation to partisan affiliation or political belief. But the meeting was a purely Democratic function and only Democrats were invited to attend. In the whole of Mr. Cummings's address reference to war finances; no explanation nor attempted justification of a war expenditure by this government during 1918 which was equal to that of Great Britain and France combined.

There was a time, and it dates back but vo administrations, when the chairmen of the Democratic National Committee sough o arouse the indignation of the country against the "high cost of living," which they laid at the door of the Republican ad ministration. At the present time the cos of living is double what it was then. The country has been functioning under peace conditions for the last six months; but the latest reports indicate that prices are not falling. Mr. Cummings's intimate relations with the present Democratic administration should enable him to give the people some valued information concerning the continued increases in the prices of foodstuffs; but apparently he has not discovered that increases have taken place; he seems to have forgotten that the issue of the high cost of living ever existed.

National ownership and operation of pub lic utilities is a purely Democratic issue. It has been a headliner in numerous Demo-cratic platforms. Those who went to hear Mr. Cummings Thursday night had a right to expect that he would extol the beneficent results obtained from nationalization of the railways, the telegraphs and the cables under the present Democratic administra-tion; to expect something about the econo-mies effected and the improved public serv-ice. But Mr. Campings, was so intent on mies effected and the improved public service. But Mr. Cummings was so intent on trying to link the Republican party with the opposition of certain Republican Senators to sections of the league covenant that he forget to tell how this undisputably Democratic issue, government operation of the railways and telegraphs, was progress

Like the great majority of the Demo cratic leaders of the past Mr. Cummings has a convenient memory. He says fittle about what his party has done; but a great deal about what it is going to do. Judged by the professions of its sponsors, the Democratic party is the greatest achievement civilization; but who seeks to delve into its practices will do well to equip

The attitude of Mr. Hays towards the League of Nations covenant has not always been above criticism. While generally a careful driver, he recently permitted the car to skid when he gave a public interview indorsing the Knox resolution to separate the league covenant from the rest of the peace treaty and coming dangerously near to committing his party to the wrong outlook. He seemed to have forgotten the point of Harriman's significant utterance. "You can't unscramble scrambled eggs."

It did not take Mr. Hays long to discover, however, that he was out of harmony with the Republican sentiment of the coun try. In an interview given to the press in Washington Thursday he came over to the full support of the League of Nations covenant, stipulating only the reservations pro-posed by Mr. Root in relation to the Monroe Doctrine and American participation in factional European disputes.

Mr. Root has pointed out that these res ervations would serve to clarify and strengthen America's position, without affeeting in any way the other sections of the covenant. Making such reservations is in strict conformity with international diplo matic procedure. They would strengthen rather than weaken the covenant and their acceptance would harmonize honest differ ences of opinion as to the scope and inten of the league.

Mr. Cummings intimated Thursday night that the Root reservations would be opposed by the Democratic minority. But his argument against them was not convincing. It was too palpable an attempt to discredit them because they did not issue from a Democratic source. Mr. Cummings, like certain other of his party associates, wants to stamp the covenant with the Democratic seal. But the people of the country as a whole are profoundly of the opinion that the only seal affixed to the covenant shall be that of "The United States of America."

A N EPOCH CLOSED.

Old John Barleycorn, who for the past two hundred years has been a very prominent character throughout the world, doubtless derived his name from the fact that he was born in a pot-still of the fermented wort of malted barley in the bonnie land of

He has had a long and extremely active career which continues in various parts of the world, but he seems to have come to the end of the road in this country, at least. And they are after him in all other coun-tries. The fact is that old John is being chased all over the map.

Next Tuesday John Barleycorn will be an outcast throughout the entire length and breadth of the United States. He will be compelled to hide in cellars and other dark places. His friends will have to deny his acquaintance or suffer the penalties of the law. Not a cork will be drawn in his honor.

And that's a strange thing, too, for there was a time when old John was mixed up with almost everything that had to do with both life and death. He was at every christening and every funeral. Between the cradle and the grave there was scarcely a thing to happen without John's presence

He was the chief joy-maker at weddings. He was the first to welcome either friend or stranger. He had his place in every house. It was his function to palliate the heat in summer and to warm things up in winter. And he was popular alike with rich and poor.

So great was his vogue, indeed, that no less a poet than Robert Burns thus apotheosized him:

"John Barleycorn was a hero bold, Of noble enterprise;
For if you do but taste his blood,
"Twill make your courage rise.

"Twill make a man forget his wee;
"Twill heighten all his joy;
"Twill make the widow's heart to sing, hough the tear were in her eve

"Then let us toast John Barleycorn, Each man a glass in hand; And may his great posterity Ne'er fall in old Scotland."

Nor does it seem that Bobby Burns was the only poet to sing praises to old John. It is really surprising how many verses were composed in his honor. There has indeed been so much poetry written with whisky as its inspiration that we may even look for a falling off of the verse supply.

Perhaps we shall be compelled to expur not to speak of Tom Moore, John Keats and

However, be all this as it may, the fact s that John Barleycorn is at death's door For, again to quote Burns, "They hae sworn a solemn oath, John Barleycorn must die." And this being the fact, it is interesting if for no other reason than that it marks the close of an epoch in our national his-

People in general are not aware that for many years the internal revenues collected by this government from the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors was the government's chief means of support. And now that these revenues are to be taken away, the government economic experts will be put to a test of their wits to find other revenues to take the place of those supplied by whisky.

John Barleycorn, it appears, has been the chief meal ticket of the government of the United States ever since its inception.

It is surprising to go back into the sta-tistics of years past and to find that as far back as 1887 there were 969 grain distilleries in this country with an annual output of over 77,000,000 gallons of "fire water," and that the revenue taxes from that

Of course the sum is tremendously greatthe fiscal year just ended, and it would have been inconceivably greater ten years from now had an end not been put to the whisky business

And also, of course, it was to be expected that the manufacturers and distributors of alcoholic liquors, the distillers, tobbers, se loon-keepers and all who profited in the traffic would and did use this argument to the loss of the revenues derived by the gov-ernment from the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors will make a very deep hole financially.

The loss will be purely financial, how-ever, and it will doubtless be more than offset by the moral gain that will ensue Anyway, there will not be so many drunk ards, and one drunkard less in any country is worth more to that country than any conceivable amount of money could be.

There can be no gainsaying that liquor physically.

To begin with, there were many instances of men who were gentle as lambs when sober, but who became mad brutes when drunk. Whisky made many a coward a brave man; it was, indeed, a proverbial producer of courage and a favorite means of making good fighting men in old wars, especially when mixed with gunpowder.

But, stranger than that, whisky has been known to make brutal men gentle. There have been men who would beat their wives when sober and who would love them to distraction when intoxicated with whisky. And certainly the stuff had the psycho logical effect of making almost any man do things under its influence that he would never think of doing otherwise. Daniel Webster was undoubtedly Amer ica's greatest orator, and Edgar Allan Poe our greatest poet. Both these men wer victims of the drink habit. Another interesting possibility that may result from the abolition of alcoholic beverages is the decline and perhaps total decay of opera in this country. It is very possible, indeed, that music will suffer a setback if we are to rely at all on the ex-

The impresarios declare it as their belief that the reason opera did not succeed in certain parts of the country was due to the fact that prohibition obtained in those sections. In other words, it is their contention that people who do not drink wine do not care sufficiently for music to pay

periences of the impresarios

Millions of men in this country will be healthler, happier and richer in pocket now that there will be no barroom rails for them to put their feet on. And, alas that it must be said, there will be thousands of women in this country who will be the better for the absence of liquor.

No doubt whisky is a valuable stimulant when administered scientifically in certain emergencies, but as a drink it has proved a curse. It has torn holes in men's stomachs and it has filled their brains with sores.

But there are other things to drink that are quite as bad, and the next step will probably be to stop the people from using them also. If they can't be stopped by law perhaps they can be influenced to do so through education. And The Times takes great pride and pleasure to point out that it has been conducting a department in its pages every Sunday for many years with this object in view.

It will not help a man much if, when whisky is taken away from him, he loads up on Jamaica ginger regularly and fills his stomach with sugar and candy. He can get drunk and stay drunk on these things and other things, too.

The best way is for a man to be intoxicated with health; to drink the wine of the clean air, to go to bed early and rise with the lark, to love his neighbor and to never worry, no matter what happens.

If a man will govern himself by these sim ple rules he won't care if all the distilleries on earth fall down in a heap in one night never to be rebuilt; and he will bid John Barleycorn good-by with the greatest pleasure in the world.

I call upon the merchant prince and ask to see his kiln-dried fruits, and say, "Send me a fig and quince," and he replies, "You bet your boots! Just glance around the store," he cries, "and order anything you wish; we have some dandy rhubarb pies and boneless prunes and potted fish." Tis thus in all the marks of trade I find the welcome sign in view, because my bills are always paid quite promptly when saft bills are due. It's helpful to your selfare que. It's helpful to your seir-respect to feel you owe no man a dime, and when the merchants would collect, to have the roubles every time. I boast not of my angel face, nor of the blue blood in my veins; nor of the blue blood in my veins; I brag not of my queenly grace, nor of my store of sizzling brains; when I'm inclined to toot my horn I merely say, "I owe no mon." and, saying, feel that I adorn the well-known sex of which I'm one. Alas, I was not always thus; I used to owe all kinds of scads, and balliffs kicked up quite a fuss pursuing me through many grads. And well I know how cheap one feels, if he owes kopeck, franc and yen, if Johnson clamors for his wheels and Jimpson for his iron. men, I'd rather live on beeswax pills and sleep at night in some one's shed than sidestep merchants bearing bills and have men say, "Your credit's dead."

BY EUGENE BROWN.

The magnificent Molewood mange on Rubberneck drive was the scene of a notable Eclat the other after noon and evening. As a social func debauch with its stinger pulled, and this particular one was the rendezvous for the beauty and chivalry of our fair city.

The Molewood residence, with its landscaped grounds, formed an apt setting for the revel-which, as revels go-was a six-cylinder scream It was a combination affair and this idea was carried out even to the salad. It not only marked the prox-imity of June Thirstieth, but it was the third divorce anniversary of the gracious—goodness gracious!—hostgracious—goodness gracious!—host-ess, Mme. Sage-Brush-Molewood, whose matrimenial episodes form a most enticing chapter in the annals of our social life.

of our social life.

Several chapters in fact.

The decorations were in keeping with the environment. There was a deal of greenery, and the fragrant aroma of spring onions hung like a veil of incense over the alluring scene. That it was the home of wealth and taste was evidenced by the numerous dainty platters of hathe numerous dainty platters of ba-con garnished with spinach that were scattered hither and yon. In the music-room a massave baked ham reposed under glass — vividly reminiscent of a departed warrior sleeping in his casket, with a flock of eager pall-bearers gathered about. From the pergola featoons of dried apples depended, flaunting their dehydrated arrogance upon the ambient air. In the spacious parfors the colors of the new shade, masma, were in vogue and this ghostly saffron was even apparent in the lights when the goddess of night cast her filmy mantle over the scene. Even the bewitching hostess had her hair bleached to this delectable hue. of eager pall-bearers gathered about

As the Mme. Molewood wore a gown that was an exquisite creation. As the society columns would say, it was a triumph of the modiste's art and was especially brewed for this hopitable adventure. It was alluringly designed to half conceal and half reveal the ample charms of the hostess. Mme. Molewood has passed beyond the welterweight class and if perfect ladies entered the ring would make no mean opponent for Mons. Willard, the distinguished controversialist. The waist of the hostess's gown was cut U-shaped, controversialist. The waist of the hostess's gown was cut U-shaped, with the bottom knocked out, and when she stooped over to pick up a stack of blue chips the faint tracery of the porous plaster she 'ad worn when threatened with appendictis was visible. The material was spider-web crepe, edged with brocaded plush, forming a striking but attractive contrast. The redundant physical glories of this social queen therefore seemed as a cial queen therefore seemed as a picture in an upholstered frame. The skirt was a knee plus ultra, with just enough plus to conceal the knee. It was cut on the model of the clinging vine and clung so closely that the hostess herself naively admitted that when she went upstairs with it on she was constrained to indulge her favorite indoor sport of cursing her maker—meaning her

There was hint of nobility in the presence of Lady Muchmore-Coyne, whose first husband was Baron of Wrezun. She charmingly admitted that she left the small Coynes—Nicholas and Penny—in the hands of their nursery governess in order that she might grace the occasion. Normally, she is a very domestic person and seldom uses an oath. Lady Coyne was arrayed in bronse satin, trimmed with a spagnetti fringe of like shade, and her figure made a marked impression on the Chippendale chair on which she sought to seat herself.

Why You Are Paying War-Prices In Peace Times

The serious concern about the mounting costs of necessities was shown not long ago when twenty-six Democratic members of the Massachusetts legislature cabled to President Wilson that "The citizens of the United States want you home to help reduce the high cost of living which we consider far more important than the League of

A man's suit of clothes that cost $15.00 in 1914 costs $20.00 today; shoes man both men's and women's $15.50 now; a woman's suit that cost $15.00 in 1914 is $24.00 today; every item in both men's and women's wearing apparel has nearly doubled in price, while food, shelter, fuel, heat, and light have soared to equally high wearing apparel has nearly doubled in price, while food, shelter, fuel, heat, and light have soared to equally high world world the Double of the price of the pri levels. This condition prompts the Detroit News to declare that "what the eating, sleeping, and dressing world wants to know is whether the cost of necessities is justified?" The consumer finds it hard to understand, according to the Buffalo Evening News, "why six months after the end of fighting, prices instead of taking a fall, are

THE LITERARY DIGEST presents this week in its leading article a comprehensive survey of the elements affecting present living costs; comparative tables showing the difference in prices of many articles in 1914 and today, the opinions of bankers, merchants, and manufacturers as to the future outlook, and the observations of editorial writers throughout the country on the situation. This article should be of practical value to every DIGEST reader.

"The Digest" Paves the Way To Prosperity

It goes without saying that you want to succeed in life or, if you are already successful, that you want to make that success greater and more far-reaching. There is no royal road to prosperity, it is reached by all sorts of routes, likely and unlikely, but there is a recipe, which, coupled with plenty of persistent application, is as apt to help you to fortune as anything known to humankind. It may be defined in one word—"education." Now, aside from the college variety, which few of us have had and the rest are too busy to think of, there remains only that obtained from intimate knowledge of men and events. To such knowledge there is no surer, saner guide than THE LITERARY DIGEST, greatest of news-magazines, the weekly upon which more than a million Americans depend for their information on the live issues of the day. This ever-increasing army represents our best and highest citi-zenship. Be wise and enlist in it to-day.

Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company cannot believe that the committee of three which has waited upon us represents the true sentiment of the men when this committee refuses to consent to an election of shop committees held in some public building convenient to the works but outside the grounds.

We are not seeking to direct or control the election. We have assented to its supervision by a committee of our employees. We have consented in advance to enter into collective bargaining with any committee so selected. We ask only that the election shall be fair and above-board and that every employee, regardless of his trade union affiliations, shall have equal opportunity to cast his ballot unhampered by outside influence.

War Labor Board, says in regard to shop committee elections: But while the management is not directly concerned in the elections, it has the right to demand that the elections be fair, that none but employees participate, that no employee, regardless of his union affiliations or lack of union affiliations, be discriminated against.

PLACE—The election shall be held in the place where the argest total vote of the men can be secured, consistent with fairces of count and full and free expression of choice, either in the hop or in some economical public building, as the chief examiner hall decide after conference, if need be, with the Secretary of the lational War Labor Board.

Will any fair-minded man hold that we are not strictly within rights, and our paramount duty, to insist that "No employee, releas of his union affiliations or lack of union affiliations, be riminated against?"

We are honestly and earnestly endeavoring to iron out exg differences to the end that our plant may be re-opened with ormer employees in their places, and that it may be operated to armonious co-operation of management and men. The one while block seems to be the place where the election of shop mittees shall be held. We have gone at least half way when are agreed that it shall be held in some building convenient. the plant, but outside the yard and separated from any pos-ble controlling supervision by the management. Cannot our men ford to be equally fair?

SUGGESTS LARGER COMMITTEE.

We have met in conference with the old shop committee because no other committee has presented itself. Many of our former employees have written saying that the committee is too small and that it is not representative. We are willing to meet with a larger committee, with any committee that can show that it represents any considerable number of our former employees.

We are not inclined to be arbitrary. Our manifest desire is to reopen the plant under harmonious conditions with the men whose intelligence and mechanical ability made last year's achievement possible. If our men will meet us in the same spirit the plant will soon be running full blast; their pay envelopes will again be bulging, and the disharmonies of the past will be mutually forgotten.

You have read of their wonderful ten-acre tract in the Duke-Knowles pool on which is now drilling the first well, and of the Southland well. It is the opinion of the best informed oil men in the Duke field that when the Southland well will be one of the largest wells in the entire field producing around 5000 barrels.

The Fulfer well in Erath county, which is only a short distance from Duke-Knowles-Annex 20-acre lease, is now re 2000 feet in oil. The pipe line company is building an extension to this well to take care of its production. This well is to become one of the big wells in this vicinity. If the Fulfer well comes in a big producer, this 20-acre several times the entire capitalization of the Duke-Knowles-Annex Oil Company.

Remember this is an epportunity for you to make an investment in one of the very best companies in the greatest oil fields the world has ever known. TAKE ADVICE AND WIRE YOUR SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR A LIBERAL AMOUNT OF STOCK IN THE DUKE-KNOWLES-ANNEX OIL COMPANY AND MAIL YOUR CHECK TODAY.

the League to Enforce Peace. He is at the Alexandria.

Mr. Cumming at once began work on the preliminary steps for a series of conferences with county committees, for the purpose of mapping out a programme and arranging for meetings and other means of voicing the community sentiment on the League of Natiogs. A meeting of the Los Angeles committee at 4 p.m. Sunday in Parlor A of the Alexandria will be the first step and will be followed by other meetings in the county and Southern California. "This is the time for all thinking and earnest citizens to voice their sentiments on the greatest problem of the age, as embodied in the League of Nations," Mr. Cumming declared in discussing the plans of his organigation.

or Nations, Mr. Cumming declared in discussing the plans of his organization.

"We feel that the subject should receive the attention of every man and woman in the State and the nation, and that our representatives in Congress should be made to feel what the sentiment of their people is. The matter is not one of party politics. The League 'to Enforce Peace is anxious to avoid all entangling alliances with anything that has a political tinge, but it is convinced that no efforts should be spared to convey to our Senators the real thought and desire of the country on the subject of the League of Nations."

President Wilson's anticipated arrival in Washington, and the recent official title caused a hitch in the case, which was continued to July 12. Trestimony introduced showed Mrs. F. B. Harrington, a sister of the bride, received a letter from Mrs. Pearl Myers, of 235 Miller avenue, Nashville. Tenn., saying she had never obtained a divorce from the defendant. The letter was received and shown to Mrs. Lookwood-Myers after her spouse left for work as a clerk is an office in the Los Angeles Investment Building, and it was finmedintely taken to the District Attorney's office.

As a result, Myers had his lunch in the County Jali instead of at his apariments, at 518 West Fourth street.

The letter also said that by his first wife, Myers had two children, one of whom recently died. It said the Tennessee marriage took place. November 21, 1905, and that the wife at Nashville would aid in preactuing the case.

Arthur C. Webb, attorney for the defendant, said his client received a telegram from a friend, saying his wife obtained a divorce in January, and the man thought himself free to remarry.

The case will be resumed when testimony of wife No. 1 can be obtained.
